Hannah DePoy Hayden is an Associate with the Litigation practice group, focusing primarily on Health Care Litigation. She practices out of the Firm's office in Lexington, Kentucky.

Hannah graduated first in her class from the University of Louisville's Brandeis School of Law. While in law school, she was the Senior Notes Editor of the University of Louisville Law Review, where she led the note research and note writing process for other students. Hannah's love of the law was evident in school, where she was a Teaching Assistant, Research Assistant, and leader in many organizations.

Hannah brings her clients experience in researching complex litigation issues. With a husband in medical school, the health care litigation group was a perfect fit. An Eastern Kentucky native, Hannah aspires to bring her clients top-notch service with a small-town-attitude-charm.

Hannah is more than just a detailed-loving attorney, she also enjoys cooking, hunting, working out, spending time with her energetic puppy, and reading fantasy books.
