Jenna Fonner is an Associate in the Litigation Practice group, focusing primarily on general litigation. She practices out of the Firm's office in Charleston, West Virginia.

Focusing on litigation from early on knowing it can cover a broad variety of legal issues has allowed Jenna to pick up experience for her clients as an associate. From drafting documents, preparing legal arguments with fellow attorneys, conducting research and partaking in depositions, she brings a preparedness to any situation that works to reassure her clients.

Her career is not limited to just litigation experience, having worked on copyright law, transactional experience and banking law, her crossover knowledge allows her clients to know she is ready for any issue that may pop up.

She has a wide variety of experience in hobbies as well. From playing tennis to visiting museums and experience in data analysis, Jenna loves broadening out her experience in all walks of life.
